COPPER PRODUCTION IN OCT.

The Statement of Producers as Published Very Interesting.

The statement of the copper producers as published on November 10th, when analyzed is very interesting in determining the question of what is a reasonable stock on hand of refined copper in the United States.

That statement shows a production during the month of October of 124,667,709 pounds, the largest production in any one month in the history of the industry.

It also shows that the United States consumed during the same month 66,359,617 pounds and during the same month exported to all foreign countries 56,261,238 pounds. A total amount for home consumption and consumption in foreign countries of 122,620,855 pounds.

This shows an excess production over consumption of 2,036,854 pounds. There is left in the country in the shape of refined copper in stock 153,509,626 pounds.

This stock on hand is called surplus.

Is not surplus the wrong term to apply?

The rate of consumption in copper was 4,087,362 pounds. At this rate the stock on hand would last thirty-eight days. Would it be reasonable to have on hand in stock to insure prompt delivery to the great manufacturing interests of this country and Europe ninety days supply?

At the rate of consumption above indicated for October, a ninety-day supply would amount to in excess of 350,000,000 pounds, whereas the present stock on hand is but one half of that amount.

It must be remembered that not much publicity was given to the great copper industry of this country until the latter part of 1905, when a sudden broad demand sprang up for copper, due to the extension of electrical installations, resulting in consumption increasing out of proportion to the then production and the phenomenal rise of copper to the extravagant price of 25 cents per pound.—Exchange.

Gov. Creel's Educational Work.

Schools are almost a hobby with Gov. Creel who has done more to build them up in this state than any other ever had. Even the Tarahumari Indians in the wilds of the Sierra Madres have not failed to receive his consideration in this regard. He has already established six schools among those people and is now taking steps to establish more. The Tarahumari children are taught in Spanish and Gov. Creel has taken steps to have compiled special text books for their use. These books will, necessarily be, Governor Creel says, much simpler than those used in the regular schools.—Chihuahua Enterprise.

Important Decision by Judge Doan.

An important decision was rendered today by Judge Doan, which will be of interest to mining men throughout the Territory, since the findings will settle a mooted question with reference to assessment work when done on a group.

In the present litigation, involving title to the Leadville company group at Courtland, it was held by the court that where the work was done on one claim for the benefit and development of the entire contiguous group, the same covering the required expenditure for each claim, the assessment is held to apply to the entire group. In the case of the Leadville company it was shown that the work done on the Copper Bug claim held for the nine adjoining claims of the group. Col. H. L. Pickett, representing the company, held to this principle and succeeded in having a legal ruling established in Arizona on same, which is the first time the question has been before an Arizona court.—Tombstone Prospector.

Cripple Will Be Deported.

Immigration Inspector A. A. Gates came up from Patagonia yesterday morning, having in custody a crippled Mexican, whom he had arrested at that point on the charge of entering the United States illegally. The Mexican several days ago was debarred by the immigration authorities at Naco, but, at the first opportunity, slipped across the boundary line and despite his crippled condition, made his way along hazardous trails as far as Patagonia. The authorities knew of his presence and Inspector Gates was on the lookout for him. He is now in the detention quarters awaiting an order of deportation from the secretary of the department of Commerce and Labor. A Federal statute prohibits the entrance of helpless aliens. The prisoner is not only deformed physically, but is penniless and will, therefore, be deported.—Star.

Big Superior Strike.

Prof. Henry Lemper, of Silver King, called at our sanctum, Saturday, and handed us the following item relative to the recent strike in the Superior mine: "The strike was made on the 13th level in the northeast cross-cut which has crossed the lode a distance of 30 feet without reaching the hanging wall. This cross cut has exposed a pay streak of gold ore about ten feet wide and the ore I saw from it will run thousands of dollars to the ton. A drift has been run along this ore body a length of about 75 feet and is still in ore. Beside the gold ore this find has also shown up fine copper ore consisting of gray copper (tetrahedrite) bornite, cuprite, arsenite and also some secondary sulphides. I think the ore also carries silver values." This strike assures the future of the Superior mine and the surrounding district as it demonstrates the fact that the veins of that district are enriched in depth as well as on the surface. One demonstrated fact is worth more than a volume of theory.—Blade Tribune.

TERRITORIAL NOTES

Items of Interest Culled From Our Exchanges.

About four inches of snow fell last Sunday. It has fast made its disappearance and furnished plenty of moisture for the ground. The farmers and stockmen are jubilant. A heavy snow means good crops.—Williams News.

"Williams can easily secure the contemplated automobile road from Phoenix via Prescott to the Grand Canyon if the Williams people will only make a stir to capture it." These are the words spoken by one of the boosters for the proposed road.

J. O. Blumer, the botanist, who two years ago spent several months in the Chiricahuas, and who later was connected with the Carnegie Institute at Tucson, has returned to Tucson from a trip into the Rincons, bringing back with him more than 3,000 specimens of plant life.

"Oconino county is enjoying the most prosperous period in its history and there is more money in the county seeking legitimate investment than any other section in the territory." This statement was made last week by Sheriff John W. Francis while on an official visit to Prescott.—Williams News.

E. B. Gage, president of the Tombstone Consolidated Mining Company, has resigned on account of ill health. Frank M. Murphy, of Prescott, has succeeded to the presidency. Mr. Gage is at the head of the Imperial Copper Co., the Congress Gold Mining Co., and the Phoenix National Bank. He has been identified with mining in Arizona since 1882.

Ronaldo Barras, the Mexican convicted of aggravated assault on Mrs. L. A. Williams, aged 70 years, was sentenced to serve four years in the Florence pen by Judge Edward Kent this morning.—Phoenix Democrat.

The two rich strikes reported in the Star over a week ago are permanent in character. One of these was on a vein running parallel with the old Tigre vein about 500 feet distant. The other is in the Sooy vein where tunnel No. 7 crossed it. This tunnel is being driven beneath all the other workings of the mine, and when completed will be 2500 feet long and of size adequate for electric haulage.

The Arizona Gold Mines Company, is running its mill on ore from the Bi-Metal mine and getting good results. It is probable that this property will be taken over by the John Hays Hammond interest within the next few months when larger operations will be ordered. The mine is capable of furnishing a thousand ton plant with ore for a long time to come and the opening of the ground at the depth of the present level will disclose many millions of tons of good ore.

The proving of the Johnson and Dragon mining districts is nothing more than an endorsement of the contention made by mining men, that the time would come when these two districts would be reckoned with the big producing districts of the southwest. A visit to them and a trip through the workings of the active companies there will show and impress you with the possibilities by the showings now made. Johnson and Dragon are two of the coming big camps of Arizona.—Cochise County Press.

W. E. Stoner, secretary of the California & Paradise Mining Company, was in town this week on business. Mr. Stoner, whose home is in Bisbee, says that city is the scene of a very warm fight on the subject of local option. So far, the saloon interests have been more active in the matter of registration than their opponents, though the belief is general that the city will be carried for prohibition. Douglas is in doubt, he says, but it is expected to go wet. It is difficult to forecast the result in the County, he says.—Paradise Record.

Following a meeting of the directors of the Swastika Copper & Silver Mining Co., at the offices of the company, 54 Council street last Saturday night, the announcement was made that in the near future actual development of the properties, which lie between the San Xavier and Paymaster workings, a short distance south of the city, will be resumed and continued without interruption in the future. Another important action of the directors at this meeting was the reducing of the capital stock from $1,500,000 to $500,000, the $1,000,000 being considered superfluous at this time.

"Mohave county will lead all the other counties of the territory in the production of gold in the next two years and by that time Kingmen will be among the most important mining centers in the entire southwest." This is the declaration made here today by former Sheriff Lovin of that county, said the Prescott Courier. Mr. Lovin arrived last night from Kingman. He resided here in the latter 80's, moving to Mohave county in 1891. "When I first moved to Mohave county," Mr. Lovin said, "there was only one man residing between Kingman and Needles. Now there are over 1000 prosperous people between these two places engaged in mining and stock raising."

The Greaterville placer mines were discovered in 1876, and off and on have been worked continuously ever since. At no time during their history have they ever been abandoned. When the big mines in the hills are running the working force is reduced to a corporal's guard, but in the event of a closing down the camp is again all life and bustle. Although much ground has been dry washed, workers are always sure of a living. It is estimated that not less than $5,000,000 has been taken from the camp since it was first discovered. One company of hydraulicers are said to have cleaned up $100,000 in about 90 days. At present there are not more than about 15 or 20 men on the ground. Occasionally, some exceedingly rich placers are found, but as a whole the ground holds fairly even throughout. The real history of the place has yet to be written, but when it is it will read like romance from the Arabian Nights.
